A brand you can play with

Planned website behavior

01	A personal guide	Ask about Courtfolio. The AI scrolls to its project and triggers a relevant animation.
02	Projects on their own	Browse clear project stories without starting a conversation.
03	A living sticker desk	Drag photo stickers, rearrange objects and let them snap into playful places.
04	A small preview of an idea	Describe a dashboard or automation. See a basic preview, then contact Mark.
05	A direct line to the human	Unknown answers go to Mark on Telegram. His reply answers the visitor and updates the KB.

Five distinct personalities

DIRECTION	STRONGEST FIT	TRADEOFF
01 Curious Human	Clear project stories with a personal, playful edge.	Needs distinctive photo stickers and a recognizable voice.
02 Renzo Radio	Warm and conversational. The AI feels like a friendly host.	Technical project stories need structure beside the retro style.
03 Build Club	Hands-on maker energy. A strong invitation to build together.	Personal photos keep it feeling like Mark rather than an agency.
04 Open Tabs	A natural home for work, life and a personal knowledge base.	Too many tabs can compete with the work itself.
05 Mark in Motion	An expressive personal signature. The most freedom for motion.	Needs quiet reading moments and a reduced-motion mode.

My recommendation

01 Curious Human

The closest match to your reference, with room for your real personality.

Borrow the warmth of Renzo Radio for the voice and sticker copy.
Keep one logo family, one core palette and a consistent type system.
